

Locus Systems and Global Cents Announce Strategic Partnership

Leading OpenText solution providers Locus Systems and Global Cents form a partnership to deliver enhanced information management solutions to OpenText customers

Toronto, ON and Chicago, IL – June 19, 2014 – Locus Systems Inc., a leading implementer of OpenText solutions with over 20 years' experience in delivering tailored consulting solutions for enterprise customers, and Global Cents, the leading provider of value-added Content Lifecycle Management products and services for OpenText Content Server for over 9 years, have entered into a strategic partnership to combine their respective consulting and development expertise enabling them to deliver best of breed Enterprise Information Management solutions based around the OpenText Content Suite.

"We are thrilled to join forces with Locus", said Tom Lilly, Global Cents President & COO. "Working together with Locus's amazing team of professional services consultants we hope to dramatically improve the way that organizations are able to develop and deliver their Content Server document processing and workflow solutions."

"Helping our clients to make the right technology decisions is a vital part of ensuring they meet their business objectives and we maintain our reputation for outstanding customer satisfaction. With GCI Power Tools in our toolkit, we believe we are simplifying that process and making some of the most robust and flexible technology available directly to them", said Richard Blais, Managing Director at Locus.

Locus and Global Cents will be rolling out rapid deployment programs and application suites to their clients aimed at delivering low risk - high reward solutions with proven track records and high ROI.
